By Consumption

(a) End of night tally

Table receives a bill at the end of the night with the total amount owing for drinks. The advantages are that service is faster, especially on a busy night. Usually 2 reds, 2 whites, 1 sparkling and a beer are chosen to be served through the night although this can be changed. Useful for general purpose parties.

b) Bar Tab - fixed

Function organiser sets a fixed amount of monies set aside for beverages. As soon as that amount (approximately) is reached, the bar 'goes dry'. Patrons can, however, after that order individual drinks and pay as they go. This method is sometimes useful for social clubs. Function usually finishes when the bar 'goes dry'.

c) Bar Tab - floating

Function organiser sets a fixed amount of monies set aside for beverages. As soon as that amount (approximately) is reached, the organiser is contacted and asked if they want the bar to 'go dry' or the 'tab' amount to go higher. Useful for engagement parties & 21st birthdays etc.

d) User Pays

The person who is having the party pays for the food and we set up a bar for people to purchase their own drinks. Subject to minimum numbers. A smaller selection of drinks is chosen to speed up service. Popular for birthday parties especially if you have a large number of friends and budgetary constraints.
